

Privacy Policy

For the website <https://www.bnamia.com> (the “Site”) of Banco de la Nacion Argentina – Miami Agency (“BNA MIAMI or the Agency or “We/Us”)

Privacy Principles

The Agency is committed to maintaining the privacy of your information and we take all appropriate precautions necessary. This Privacy Policy is intended to explain what type of information we collect and how we collect it, as well as the ways it is used, shared and protected when you visit or use the Site.

By accessing this Site and any pages thereof and/or linked thereto, you agree to be bound by the Privacy Policy described herein (the “Privacy Policy”). This Privacy Policy applies to all information that you may transmit from time to time through this Site.

The Privacy Policy does not apply to or govern any access within the Site connected to third party websites and consequently you acknowledge and hold BNA MIAMI harmless from all liabilities.

- When people enter personal information to contact us and/or use our services, they do so voluntarily, including data related to the use they have made in the past of Agency’s products and services that allow their identification, such as, your name, ID, date of birth, address, city, state, email, telephone number, etc., these data being private, that is, they are not available to the public.
- This information may be distributed to the related companies that make up the Banco Nacion Group as appropriate. Thus, we also state that, since they are not checked, that is, without reliably validating that the data entered belongs to whoever completes the information required by the system, information that is not required could be sent.
- The Agency does not sell or rent the information provided to anyone.
- The Agency may contact people, based on the data entered, in the future if it deems it appropriate.
- This website collects statistical information on the user by storing its own and third party "cookies" on the visitor's device. The aforementioned information in no way identifies or is capable of personally identifying the user, that is, it is completely anonymous. Said information will be used to better understand the activity of site visitors, improve user interaction and experience.
- The user can at any time deactivate the use of cookies by modifying the configuration parameters of their browser. Deactivation does not prevent the display of the pages of this site.
